Researchers at the University of Health Sciences (UHS), Lahore, have launched a clinical trial to assess blood plasma therapy for Covid-19 treatment.

The University requires blood plasma donations from people who have recovered from Covid-19. This plasma will be administered to Covid-19 patients who could not generate sufficient antibodies against the virus.

All those Covid-19 victims who have recovered from the disease and have recently been tested negative for coronavirus can donate blood plasma for this noble cause.

For donation of blood plasma, please contact
