FOREWORD

Dear Prospective Students,

The decision to pursue a career in medicine or dentistry is among the most important choices a young person can make. It reflects not only an aspiration for professional achievement, but also a willingness to shoulder the responsibility of caring for human life. For every aspiring doctor and dentist, the journey begins with a commitment to hard work, discipline, integrity and service to humanity. Admission to a medical or dental college is the first step towards fulfilling that commitment, and it deserves to be approached with seriousness, preparation and a clear understanding of the process.

The University of Health Sciences (UHS), Lahore, as the Admitting University for Punjab, is entrusted with the responsibility of conducting admissions to public sector medical and dental colleges across the province. This prospectus for the Session 2026–27 has been prepared in accordance with the admission policy approved by the Government of Punjab and notified by the Specialized Healthcare and Medical Education Department. It serves as the principal guide for candidates seeking admission and provides the essential information required to navigate the process.

I urge every applicant to read this prospectus thoroughly and follow all instructions with care. Particular attention must be given to the eligibility criteria, application requirements, merit and selection procedures, and prescribed deadlines. A thorough understanding of the prospectus is essential for every applicant. Failure to read or comply with the stated instructions may result in errors, missed deadlines or the loss of an opportunity for admission. Candidates are therefore advised to rely on the official instructions provided in this prospectus and to ensure that every requirement is fulfilled within the stipulated time.

At UHS, we regard merit, fairness and transparency as the foundations of a credible admission system. Every eligible candidate must have an equal opportunity to compete on merit, and the admission process must uphold this principle at every stage.

The responsibility of medical and dental education extends well beyond academic qualifications. Our institutions must prepare graduates who possess sound scientific knowledge, clinical competence, ethical judgment and a genuine sense of responsibility towards their patients and society. Technical proficiency is indispensable, but it must be accompanied by compassion, integrity and respect for human dignity. These are the qualities that define a good doctor and a good dentist.

To all candidates aspiring to join Punjab's public sector medical and dental colleges, I extend my best wishes. The path ahead will demand perseverance, resilience and a lifelong commitment to learning. Those who enter these professions must always remember that their ultimate responsibility is to serve humanity with competence, honesty and compassion.

I hope this prospectus provides the clarity and guidance you need as you take this important step towards your chosen profession. May your efforts be rewarded, and may you go on to become healthcare professionals who bring honour to their institutions and make a lasting contribution to the health and well-being of our people.

With best wishes,

King Edward Medical College/KEMU Lahore

King Edward Medical University is the historic and most prestigious medical institution in Pakistan. The Crown Rule in India laid the foundation of this paramount national institution in 1860 as Lahore Medial School with Dr. J. B. Scriven as the first Principal. The then newly built Mayo Hospital was attached to the school in 1870. In 1886, the school was upgraded to Lahore Medical College. The first College Day commenced on 5th of November, 1888. It was presided over by Sir Charles Umpherston Aitchison - the Lieutenant Governor of the Punjab.

The Licentiate Diploma initially offered by the School, from 1860-1870 and later by Punjab University College from 1871 onwards, was re-designated as Bachelor degree and resultantly, first MBBS degree was awarded in 1891.

At the turn of the century, the College then, officially affiliated with the Punjab University in 1906, catered for the needs of whole of Northern and Central India and Burma.

The expansion of college building started in 1910, and in December 1911, Lahore Medical College was renamed as King Edward Medical College. There were generous donations from various princely states for the expansion project and hence, the different blocks of the college were named after these states as Patiala Block, Bahawalpur Block, Farid Kot Block and Kapurthala Block. The building of this institution, now proudly called as the Patiala Block, was completed in 1914 and inaugurated in 1915 by Lord Hardinge of Penshurt, Viceroy and Governor General of India (1910-1916).

After independence, Lt. Col. Ilahe Bukhsh became the first Pakistani Principal of the college and he was physician to the founder of Pakistan, Quaid e Azam. Students of this college provided selfless relief and medical services to the nation during all times including migration, epidemics and disasters. In 2006, the college was upgraded to a degree-awarding medical university called King Edward Medical University.

Merit Calculation Formula

Example – 1

If,

Marks obtained in SSC/Matriculation	=	1038/1100
Marks obtained in FSc/HSSC	=	1100/1200
Marks obtained in MDCAT 2024	=	190/200

Then,

10% of SSC/Matriculation	=	$\frac{1038}{1100} \times 1200 \times 0.10$
	=	113.24
40% of HSSC/FSc	=	1100 x 0.40
	=	440.00
50% of MDCAT	=	$\frac{190}{200} \times 1200 \times 0.50$
	=	570.00

So, Aggregate Percentage = $\frac{113.24 + 440.00 + 570.00}{1200} \times 100$ = 93.6033%

Example – 2

If,

Marks obtained in SSC/Matriculation	=	1038/1100
Marks obtained in FSc/HSSC	=	1100/1200
Marks obtained in MDCAT 2026	=	172/180

Then,

10% of SSC/Matriculation	=	$\frac{1038}{1100} \times 1200 \times 0.10$
	=	113.24
40% of HSSC/FSc	=	1100 x 0.40
	=	440.00
50% of MDCAT	=	$\frac{172}{180} \times 1200 \times 0.50$
	=	573.33

Aggregate Percentage = $\frac{113.24 + 440.00 + 573.33}{1200} \times 100$ = 93.8808%
